

I am quite concerned that Congress and the FCC would consider revoking traffic and weather on satellite radio. Subscribers are paying for satellite radio because we cannot find suitable content on homogenized, bland regular radio. We pay for this privilege, which in itself should tell the FCC that we are tired of the NAB and other special interests issuing edicts on how we can obtain music, news, and information. It is sad if special interest money sways the FCC, rather than what the general population really wants. Please keep satellite radio services independent, and leave our traffic and weather alone. Thank you.
